Now up to Egypt, U.S.

Israel's peace offer final

By United Press International

Government sources in Tel Aviv said Monday Israel has for the most part presented its final peace offer to Egypt for a second-stage Sinai peninsula troop pullback but would accept minor adjustments.

But Israel's hard-line Defense Minister Shimon Peres said in a newspaper interview, "Our proposals are the last ones."

An Israeli government official said, however, there was no deadlock between Egypt and Israel although "a gap on important issues exists. We now expect Egypt to show more flexibility, and the ball is now between the United States and Egypt."

In Warsaw, a senior American official traveling with President Ford said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger may resume his shuttle diplomacy between Egypt and Israel next month but no date has been set yet.

U.S. Ambassador to Egypt Hermann Eilts flew to Cairo Monday after conferring with Kissinger Saturday and Sunday in Bonn on the "latest ideas" for a new Sinai troop withdrawal.

Eilts has arranged to meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat Friday or Saturday, when Sadat returns from the Organization of African Unity summit in Kampala, Uganda.

That summit is expected to approve Egypt's proposals for economic sanctions against Israel and its suspension from the United Nations until it withdraws from Arab territory.

Kissinger is expected to meet Eilts later in Belgrade to hear Sadat's latest views before Kissinger flies on to Washington.

In Amman, Jordan Syrian Prime Minister Mahmoud Al Ayyoubi met his Jordanian counterpart, Zeid Rifai, for the first official session of a bilateral committee coordinating military and political strategy against Israel.

The increasingly close ties between Syria and Jordan has led to fears in Washington that Jordan may open up a third front against Israel if there is another outbreak of fighting.

In Tel Aviv, Peres, in an interview with the newspaper Ha'aretz, said that Israel's latest proposals were final.

"We have gone far, very far," he said.

Administration still trying to sell missiles to Jordan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration Monday withdrew its embattled offer to sell Jordan 14 Hawk anti-aircraft missile batteries — then immediately reinstituted it in a bid for time to work out a compromise.

Since December, Congress has had authority to disallow proposed arms sales of $25 million or more if both houses vote their disapproval within 20 days. Wednesday had been the deadline on the $350 million

Jordanian deal, and Congress had appeared ready to say no to the 14 batteries.

The sale has been hotly criticized by members of Congress who feel that Jordan's insistence on 14 batteries is excessive, would upset the Middle East military balance, and might draw Jordan into any new Mideast war.

The administration was talking last week of a compromise involving only six batteries, but King Hussein said this was unsatisfactory and threatened to look elsewhere for an equivalent missile.

Assistant Secretary of State Alfred L. Atherton, speaking to reporters before an afternoon session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, acknowledged that the withdrawal and resubmission was a technical maneuver intended to gain time in which to find a new arrangement that will satisfy both Hussein and Congress.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said the committee would put the whole issue off until after the August recess. The next 20-day period will expire in the middle of the recess, but Atherton indicated the administration would withdraw and resubmit the offer again and would not try to ram the deal through while Congress is out of town.

U.S., Poland join effort for peace

WARSAW (UPI) — President Ford and Polish Communist leader Edward Gierek joined Monday in expressing confidence the 35-nation European security summit opening in Helsinki today would "contribute to a strengthening of peace in Europe."

The eight-page statement pledged the United States and Poland to do everything possible so the results of the conference "become a genuine and strong stimulus for positively shaping relations among the participant states."

Aside from the formal talks with Gierek, Ford's day was devoted more to pleasure than business. He lunched and dined with Gierek and government ministers, watched folk dancers of the national Mazowse troupe, and strolled through the narrow streets of the rebuilt Old City.

Everywhere he was met with a rousing, cheering welcome from Poles on the streets, on balconies and behind market stalls.

His wife Betty, over-tired after a gay but hectic weekend in Bonn, skipped the state luncheon and went to bed.

Gierek set the "peace" theme when he greeted Ford at Okciek airport on his arrival from Bonn on the second leg of his journey to the Helsinki summit.

The Polish leader, recalling the destruction of Warsaw at the end of World War II, said "Our capital has been restored to life, beautiful and modern."

"Yet memory of the immensity and sacrifice and suffering remains, as does the desire impressed on our hearts and minds: no more war."

Ford pledged his talks with the Polish government leadership would "strengthen the traditional friendship between our two peoples and improve prospects for world peace."

In their joint statement later, Ford and Gierek said they consider the Helsinki conference "a positive contribution to the continuing process of international détente and express their hope that it will be regarded as an historic event."

They "expressed their confidence that the implementation of the decisions by all participants would contribute to a strengthening of peace in Europe and developing ever broader, all-round cooperation among them."

The document declared that "security in Europe is indivisible and it remains closely linked with peace and security in the world as a whole."

Army suspends tests of drugs on humans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army is investigating "adverse information" about the doctor who ran LSD tests on soldiers until a few years ago, the Pentagon announced Monday.

It also said a planned program to test more chemicals on human volunteers was "temporarily suspended" by Acting Army Secretary Norman R. Augustine.

"This suspension will permit the Army to determine all the facts connected with the test programs which were initiated in the 1950s," a spokesman said.

The Pentagon said 36 volunteers had already been assembled at Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland, but they would now return to their home bases.

Augustine directed the Army inspector general "to check some possible adverse information about Dr. Van M. Sim, chief of the medical research division of the bio-medical laboratory, which was brought to the Army's attention in the form of a query from TV correspondent Leslie Stahl of CBS," an announcement said.

Stahl said Monday that in 1951 Sim was accused of misuse of drugs — taking Demerol without a prescription — and that as a result he was discharged from the medical institute at which he was then working.

Stahl said Sim told her he took painkillers for six months to ease severe back pains and had left the medical institute of his own accord.

Army sources told UPI they had been looking into Sim's background for some days and "we certainly have enough on him to take away his security clearance at least."

Reduced to tropical storm

Blanche loses punch

HALIFAX, N. S. (UPI) — The season's first hurricane, Blanche, made its first landfall Monday but its whistling winds had dropped below hurricane strength by the time they hit the shore of Nova Scotia.

Weather officials downgraded Blanche to a "deep tropical storm" as its winds, which had hit a peak strength of 85 m.p.h. over the Atlantic Ocean, eased to 60 to 65 m.p.h., while crossing north-northeast through the maritime province and causing little damage en route.

The Halifax Weather Bureau said Blanche lost some of its punch as it passed Prince Edward Island at mid-afternoon and headed up the Gulf of the St. Lawrence River toward the sparsely populated areas of eastern Quebec and Labrador.

Voting Rights Act stays on books for 7 more years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted Monday to accept a Senate-passed measure extending the 1965 Voting Rights Act for seven years, sending the bill to the White House for expected approval.

The 346-56 vote meant the House backed away from its earlier demand for a 10-year extension of the landmark civil rights measure. The length of the extension was the only major change the Senate made in the earlier House-passed bill. In addition to extending the act, the bill expands its coverage to every major racial and ethnic group in the nation.

The measure also would permanently ban all voter literacy tests and require that states provide special bilingual voter instructions for language minorities.

Final congressional action came in the face of an Aug. 6 expiration date for key provisions in the act and with a Friday deadline for Congress to start a month-long recess.

Turks take command of U.S. military bases

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Turkey informed the United States Monday that Turkish officers would relieve American commanders at 12 U.S. bases today in new moves to take control of all U.S. military installations on Turkish territory.

Six of the bases — small communications facilities — would continue to operate under Turkish control, U.S. officials said.

Operations at the other six, including four of them key intelligence-gathering installations, a Sixth Fleet navigational aid station, and non-NATO activities at Incirlik Air Base, have already been suspended.

The remaining of the two dozen American bases are still being operated by U.S. servicemen, but they are nominally if not effectively under the command of Turkish forces since Saturday when Turkey annulled bilateral defense agreements with the United States because of the U.S. House of Representatives' refusal to lift an arms embargo.

Suspension of operations Sunday at Sinop, on the Black Sea coast, Pirinlik, in southeast Turkey, Karamusel, on the Marmara Sea, and Belbasi, near Ankara, left "a very serious gap in intelligence gathering operations" of the United States.

A Turkish government spokesman said operations at the four bases that cavedrop on the Soviet Union might eventually be resumed under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said previously the information gathered at the installations went only to the United States.

A high-ranking American official traveling with President Ford in Warsaw said Monday that the failure of the House to reverse the arms ban and the subsequent Turkish takeover of the bases was a "national security disaster." But he said there was "no chance" Turkey would gain control of American nuclear weapons as feared by Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott.

"The bases may be taken over but not the nuclear weapons," the official said.

The high-ranking American official held out little prospect the House would reverse itself and lift the arms embargo, imposed because Turkey used U.S. arms in invading and capturing 40 per cent of Cyprus in July of 1974.

In Brussels, NATO called a meeting of its delegates for today to discuss the Turkish takeover. NATO authorities have expressed regret at the move and said the U.S. bases were vital to NATO's defense of the Eastern Mediterranean.

Trade surplus, production good news for economy

By United Press International

The United States recorded its biggest monthly trade surplus in history, and the nation's private businesses made the biggest gain in efficiency in more than two years, the government said Monday.

Both developments are viewed by economists as more evidence the 18-month recession ended and a recovery was under way.

But antirecession programs helped push the federal government $44.2 billion into the red during the fiscal year ended June 30. It was the biggest budget deficit since the last days of World War II.

In the prior fiscal year, the budget deficit was $3.5 billion. James T. Lynn, budget director in the Ford administration, said the deficit for the current period could hit $84 billion.

The June trade surplus of $1.74 billion was prompted by an increase of $546.7 million, or 6.7 per cent, to $8.69 billion in U.S. exports and a $139.2 million, or 2 per cent, decrease to $6.95 billion in imports.

It was the fifth consecutive monthly surplus in trade, giving the United States a $5.4 billion balance for the first six months of the year. The nation's trade account has not been in the black for five months in a row since 1973-74.

The Labor Department, meanwhile, said productivity in the private economy rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2 per cent in the past three months. It was the first quarterly gain in productivity in a year and the largest gain since the first three months of 1973.

A gain in productivity means industries and businesses produced goods and services more efficiently — at less cost per man and machine hour.

Economists expected productivity to rise in the early stages of the recovery from the recession because businessmen are slow to hire back workers laid off in the recession.

Quick action prevented serious damage

Pilot error let fumes into Apollo

HOUSTON (UPI) — Astronaut Vance Brand, controlling the Apollo during return to earth, failed to flip two switches causing poisonous propellant fumes to fill the spaceship cabin and hospitalize the three pilots with serious lung irritation.

Brand had to manually release the parachutes to bring the pilots to a safe splashdown and only quick action by Thomas Stafford when the Apollo was floating upside down in the Pacific Ocean saved the pilots greater lung damage from the potentially fatal nitrogen tetroxide fumes, officials said.

Brand, Stafford and Donald "Deke" Slayton were greatly recovered and were to be released from Tripler Army Medical Center in Hawaii today, but would have to remain in the hospital for 10 more days to rest and avoid contact with common germs such as colds and flu because their immunities to respiratory diseases were greatly reduced.

The astronauts and their families, due to join them in Honolulu in the next few days, will stay the prolonged observation period in military beach houses.

The nitrogen tetroxide turns to nitric acid — a very caustic substance — when it contacts eyes, skin and lungs. Glynn S. Lunney, Apollo spacecraft program office director, said the tests did not yet indicate the concentration of the fumes in the cabin, but they believed the heaviest concentrations lasted only a few seconds.

Lunney said Slayton read instructions to Brand, but Brand did not acknowledge.

Young steelworker hits lottery jackpot

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A 20-year-old steelworker from Allegheny County won the jackpot prize in the Pennsylvania Lottery Monday night — $1,000 a week for the rest of his life.

Mike Brestensky of Tarentum, an employee of Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Co., was picked from 10 finalists at a televised drawing of the Instant Lottery jackpot.

"We never thought we would win," said Brestensky's wife, Sharon, also 20. "We just wanted enough to make a down payment on a home."

The Brestensky's will have more than enough to do that. He will collect $2.5 million if he lives to age 70.

"I'm going to buy a Rolls Royce," said Brestensky, who sports long black hair and a full beard. "That's the only thing I thought of. We didn't even think about winning the $1,000."

Mike and Sharon were married 13 months ago and currently rent a small home in Tarentum. He was laid off from his job at the steel company for five months and went back to work last weekend.

Sharon worked as an assistant to a Tarentum dentist. "But not any more," she said after her husband's name was picked. "I already told the doctor I'd quit by Wednesday."

Shapp knocks rails plan

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The U.S. Railway Association's plan for reorganization of seven bankrupt railroads reduces the amount of track originally scheduled for abandonment in Pennsylvania, but Gov. Milton J. Shapp is still critical of the proposal.

Shapp said the Final Systems Plan submitted to Congress Monday for the railroads, including the Penn Central, Erie-Lackawanna, Reading and Lehigh Valley, was "a blueprint for disaster" and "absolutely the wrong way to go."

The plan restores about 200 of some 300 miles of secondary track in Pennsylvania which had been scheduled for abandonment in the USRA's preliminary plan disclosed earlier.

But Shapp said the new plan is "just phase two of the Penn Central: only bigger and worse."

He said it "would make seven bankrupt lines into one big bankrupt line with greater management problems and reduced service to shippers, causing economic problems in communities served by those lines."

"It is absolutely the wrong way to go," Shapp said. "If Congress doesn't reject it, it will be a real body blow to the economy of the whole Northeast. It's an attempt to buy time for the administration to arrange for the liquidation of the bankrupt lines."

The USRA said that under the plan, the Chessie System has tentatively agreed to acquire and operate approximately 2,000 miles of rail lines primarily of the Erie Lackawanna and Reading Railroads.

The report recommended the Chessie System acquire most of the Reading Railroad's freight service, including the Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Reading and Allentown-Bethlehem area.

The USRA said the plan "also strengthens rail service competition into the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton area with the recommended transfer of Erie Lackawanna to the Chessie System."

This would provide continued service on the former Erie Lackawanna route from Buffalo, N.Y., and west to northern New Jersey by way of Binghamton, N.Y. and Scranton. The former Lehigh Valley line between Allentown and Sayre via Wilkes-Barre would also be continued as a mainline route.

The plan's proposed line haul rehabilitation program lists among its first priorities the former Pennsylvania Railroad mainline from Harrisburg to Johnstown to Pittsburgh via Greensburg and from Pittsburgh to Alliance via Conway.

The Harrisburg to Driftwood via Williamsport line also will receive first priority rehabilitation, as would the former Lehigh Valley line from Easton to Wilkes-Barre.

Demos' telethon falls short

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Democratic National Committee spokesman Monday described the $4.6 million in pledges to the party's fourth fund raising telethon as "disappointing but not unsatisfactory."

The 22-hour weekend broadcast marathon pulled $1.3 million less in pledges than the 21-hour 1974 show.

The party — which has been holding telethons yearly since 1972 to finance state and national operations and help retire a debt dating back to the 1968 campaign — expects to collect about 85 per cent of the funds pledged during the show.

Last year, it received $5.4 million from the telethon, netting slightly less than $3 million after production costs.

Vince Clephas, national committee director of communications, said the state of the economy appeared to be a big reason for the lower total, although the decision of some stations to air other shows or go off the air in the early hours Sunday was a "weakness."

Clephas said the telethon was useful "even if we didn't make a nickel" as a means of "telling the story of the Democratic party on the air."

"We did that. We had major officeholders and leaders of the party on the air every half hour answering questions sent in by contributors ... That was very important," Clephas said.

Industries in Pennsylvania face natural gas cutbacks

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Pennsylvania industries that depend on natural gas are in for a tough winter.

"It's going to be worse this winter than it was last winter," said Thomas R. Clift of the Public Utility Commission's gas pipeline safety division.

Most of the state's distribution companies plan cutbacks ranging from 37 to 60 per cent.

The PUC has been watching natural gas supplies for several years, and was joined last year by the Governor's Energy Council: Both are developing contingency plans to conserve gas.

William Harrell, executive director of the council, said the solution lies with the federal government. The PUC and the council can only battle before the Federal Power Commission to get help to crisis areas.

"We went to bat last year for as many industries as possible," Harrell said Monday. "But we got less and less successful because other states learned about the channels you use to get gas supplies."

Both Harrell and Clift said the curtailments by 11 major Pennsylvania gas suppliers should not affect home users, although they recommended homeowners do everything possible to conserve natural gas this winter.

Clift said the gas suppliers are not expected to release their final curtailment reports until the middle of August, but his preliminary information shows:

—Carnegie Natural Gas is suffering a severe curtailment that could effect its only major customer, U.S. Steel.

—Columbia Gas Co., one of the state's major distributors, has indicated a 60 per cent curtailment for its 175 industrial customers.

—Penn Fuel Gas and its subsidiaries are planning curtailments of more than 50 per cent for industrial users.

Circles globe every 91 minutes

China launches spy spacecraft

HONG KONG (UPI) — Intelligence sources specializing in Chinese affairs said Monday the satellite launched Saturday by China is believed to be Peking's first spy-in-the-sky spacecraft. Peking announcements said only that it is circling the globe every 91 minutes and "working properly."

The trajectory of the satellite took it over almost 2,000 miles of territory in the central part of the Soviet Union, including the island of Novaya Zemlya, a major Soviet nuclear testing area.

It also crossed over part of Outer Mongolia, where large numbers of Soviet troops and missiles are reported to be stationed as part of the force protecting the disputed Sino-Soviet border.

The satellite is the third put into orbit by China and the first in more than four years. The first two, launched in April 1970 and March 1971, were experimental, according to the intelligence sources.

However, these sources said the latest satellite is believed to be a fully operating model that probably is transmitting photographic and other data to receiving stations in China.

At its closest point to earth, the new satellite is 126 miles high and at its most distant point it is 290 miles high. This makes its orbit much closer to earth than the other two.

Testimony underway in Little murder trial

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — A policeman testified Monday that a bra and negligee were hanging in Joan Little's cell the night he found the blood-spattered, partially nude body of jailer Clarence Alligood sprawled on the floor beneath them.

Two officers from Washington, N.C., were the opening day witnesses in Miss Little's trial for the murder of the 62-year-old jailer. Miss Little, a 21-year-old black, escaped the jail the night of Aug. 27, and later turned herself in claiming Alligood tried to rape her and she stabbed him in self defense.

Patrolman Johnny Rose police department told the court he was returning to the Beaufort County Jail after making an arrest when he and police Sergeant Jerry Helms found Alligood's body.

"I walked into the cell and examined the body and found it to be Alligood," he told the court. "I saw some spots of blood on the back of his head and on his scalp. They were larger than a quarter but not as large as a half dollar."

Rose said he released his prisoner and began searching for Miss Little.

Helms was the first witness to appear, and while Alligood's family watched from the courtroom, he detailed the scene of the slaying.

He said he found the cell block door open to the women's area and, on looking inside, first saw a pair of men's shoes in the hall.

"I then saw a lady's bra and what appeared to be a negligee hanging on the door...I saw what appeared to be a pair of men's feet with socks," he said.

What's news

Remember Alf Landon?

TOPEKA, Kan. — In an open letter to President Ford, 1936 presidential candidate and former Kansas Gov. Alf Landon Monday gave his support to Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and criticized congressional action embargoing arms to Turkey.

"The failure in the House of Representatives to repeal the embargo on arms for Turkey is not a defeat for you, Mr. President," Landon said. "It is a betrayal of good sense in our foreign relations. By Congress not following your policies, the loser is obviously our great country."

Energy plan vote on way

WASHINGTON — Senate Democrats tried Monday to take the first step in their effort to kill President Ford's latest and what he called last compromise proposal to phase out price controls on oil. Republicans blocked the move. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield tried to call up for action a resolution which would kill Ford's plan to phase out price controls on "old" oil — about 60 per cent of domestic production — over a 39-month period, when the Republicans objected, assistant Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd filed a motion to cut off debate. That vote, however, cannot come until Wednesday.

Crime is top concern

PRINCETON, N.J. — The latest Gallup poll says crime remains the top concern of residents of cities of all sizes, surpassing concern over current economic problems. The nationwide poll released Sunday said 45 per cent of those polled are afraid to walk in their neighborhoods at night. The percentage has climbed from 31 per cent in 1968 to 42 per cent in a late 1972 to the present figure, the poll said. The survey also found that 49 per cent of those polled believe that the crime situation has worsened in their communities over the last 12 months.

Some coffee prices raised

NEW YORK — General Foods Corp. Monday boosted wholesale prices by 20 cents a pound for ground coffees and 3 cents an ounce on its instant and freeze-dried brands following severe frost damage to Brazil's 1976 coffee crop. The increases, which are effective immediately, affect retail packs of Maxwell House, Sanka, Brim, Yuban, Max-Pax and Maxim, a spokesman for General Foods in White Plains, N.Y., said. In Lake Success, N.Y. Ehlers announced a 10-cent across-the-board increase in its coffee prices.

Food stamp ruling uncontested

WASHINGTON — The federal government will not appeal a federal court ruling ordering correction of food stamp allotment formulas that short-change larger families, it was announced Monday. John Damgard, a deputy assistant secretary of agriculture, said the decision means the agency must come up with a new allocation system which — under the terms of a federal appeals court decree — will give families of all sizes and age compositions enough aid to buy an adequate diet. The court ruled that the current formula, which is based on food quantities and costs for a standard four-person family, fell below legal requirements when applied to some larger families or households with above-average nutritional needs.

Trip tuckers out First Lady

WARSAW — First Lady Betty Ford, described as "too tired" to continue the rounds with her husband, canceled all further social engagements Monday and retired to guest quarters here. Her son Jack, accompanying the Fords on their European swing, said there was a 50-50 chance she would continue the 10-day journey but avoid all side activities. The White House physician, Dr. William Lukash, said Mrs. Ford was simply too tired for further activities just two days into the trip.

Exhaust standard delay sought

WASHINGTON — The White House formally asked Congress Monday to delay for five years the strict new auto exhaust standards which are due to go into effect with the 1977 models. Delaying implementation of the rules until the 1982 models, the White House said, would "permit a balance among the important objectives of improving air quality, protecting public health and safety, and avoiding unnecessary increases in consumer costs for automobiles, decreases in gasoline mileage, and increases in the nation's dependence on foreign oil." President Ford recommended the delay in a message to Congress a month ago and Monday sent the legislation to accomplish it to Capitol Hill.

Inspections abandoned for migrant labor camps

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Citing a $6.7 million budget cut, the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources Monday abandoned all inspection and licensing programs for migrant labor camps in the state.

There are about 200 such camps in Pennsylvania, where seasonal farmworkers live while they harvest fruit and vegetables. DER was the only state agency that had inspection and licensing power.

According to Dr. Maurice Goddard, DER secretary, the programs will be handed over to the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration, which has migrant camp regulations similar to Pennsylvania's.

The DER inspection programs have been criticized in the past by fruit and vegetable growers who oppose government regulation of migrants camps.

But officials within state government who monitor the programs said most of the problems had been resolved and the farmers and the state were working together to improve conditions in the camps.

Funds to be reinstated

Parochial could return $10,000 to Monroe

STRODSBURG — Aid to four parochial schools in Monroe County will increase by more than $10,000 this year if three bills just passed by the state General Assembly are not struck down by the courts.

Most of Pennsylvania's aid to non-public schools met that fate in late May when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled state aid that provides for non-public guidance, remedial reading and other auxiliary services is unconstitutional.

The three bills, sent to Gov. Milton J. Shapp for his signature reinstate aid in some cases increase monies the state gives to non-public schools.

Non-public aid was cut from $76 to $15 per student by the court in May, a move that threatened to boost the tuition parents pay to enroll their children in non-public schools.

The three bills increase the state subsidy to $90 per non-public school student, but do not contain the provisions the Supreme Court objected to, according to Nick Pacchiano, coordinator of non-public school services for Colonial Northampton Intermediate Unit 20.

(Unit 20 is in charge of providing auxiliary services to non-public schools in Pike, Monroe and Northampton counties.)

House Bill 1439 will provide $45 per pupil for guidance, remedial reading, speech therapy and other auxiliary services. The amount had been $36 per pupil, but was slashed to zero by the court.

The bill stipulates the intermediate units must provide "secular, neutral, non-ideological services as are of benefit to all school children and are presently or hereafter provided for public school children of the Commonwealth."

Pacchiano said the new bill is an attempt to meet the court's mandate of the separation of church and state.

House Bill 1438 increases the amount of money the state can give non-public schools for textbooks from $15 to $20. The court had allowed this subsidy.

House Bill 1440 will allow the state secretary of education to purchase textbooks and instructional materials and loan them to non-public schools without charge. Pacchiano said this amounts to $25 per student, the same as before.

According to Unit 20 figures, Notre Dame High School and St. Matthews Elementary School, both in East Stroudsburg, received $19,228 last year under aid to non-public school laws. The Supreme Court ruling would have cut that to $3,795 this year, but if the new bills become and remain law, the schools' allocation this fiscal year will be $22,770.

Pocono Central Catholic (High) School and Msgr. McHugh Elementary School were allocated $33,516 under the old legislation and would have been eligible for only $6,615 after the court ruling.

The new bills could fund them at $40,690 this year.

Msgr. Thomas J. Cawley, administrator of Notre Dame and St. Matthews, said it is too early to tell how the bills will affect tuition, since the governing board of pastors was still calculating how the Supreme Court ruling would effect them.

For families in the parishes comprising the school district, tuition for the first two children is $75 per child in elementary school and $150 per child in high school.

Smithfield tries to correct misplaced septic system

MINISINK HILLS — Smithfield Township supervisors agreed that "somebody goofed" after they made an inspection of a sewer system that was installed less than 100 feet from a well.

The supervisors aren't sure however, whose fault it was or how much responsibility the township will have to assume to correct it.

Joe Kellerman told supervisors at their July 17 meeting that a sewer system on his property on Cherry Valley Road had been installed less than 100 feet from the inside well of his neighbor, Ernest Schwartz.

The system was inspected by Russ Williams of Hess Associates because township inspector Nicholas Iosca couldn't inspect a system installed by his son, Paul Iosca.

Kellerman claimed that Williams didn't check for neighboring wells and that the state court had ruled last year in a similar case that the township was responsible.

After visiting the site, supervisor Al Wilson said Sunday the septic system is approximately 75 feet from Schwartz's well but is not faulty.

"The bed is too close to his neighbor's well. The well was not positively located when the bed was installed," Wilson explained.

Wilson said Kellerman and his two contractors made the drawings and "the inspecting engineer can only go by the drawings. He's a disinterested party."

He said they are looking for an alternate system that would meet the state codes even though the well and septic system are closer than the state required 100 feet.

"On many occasions with certain types of soils, you can have a system as close as 40 or

Reservists at depot march like tourists

TOBYHANNA — For most free-spending tourists, a summer trip to the Poconos means mountains of fun. For hundreds of Reservists, however, a two-week stay at Tobyhanna Army Depot is like a paid vacation — after duty hours, of course.

They hail from the hinterlands of Maryland, Delaware, New York, and Pennsylvania. Ten units are arriving in truck convoys May through August.

The trek is long and bumpy for some. To reach this military reservation for the first time, the 1005th General Supply Co. rambled over 300 miles — from Uniontown, south-west of Pittsburgh.

Once they arrive, the summer reservists quickly adapt to GI lifestyle. They billet in 250-bed Summer Barracks, operating its mess hall with their own cooks.

Once a week, traditional retreat is held in dress uniform — a colorful sight to civilians motoring home.

During duty hours the summer soldiers undergo serious training with civilian instructors in their unit's prime mission — supply, light equipment maintenance, engineering, and administration.

Instruction is pegged to a unit's available equipment, or what it would normally support.

In off-duty time, the reservists can become a tourist in the Pocono Mountains.

Members of the 1005th General Supply Co. number 95 men and five Wacs. Its mission is basic and essential in general supply: To receive, store, assemble and ship Army material.

Beside civilians and under their four officers, they operated warehouse cranes, forklifts and tractors, assembled items destined for global distribution, and processed papers and administrative details.

The 1005th also supplied its own transportation of personnel and equipment.

Let's look at Ford as we once scrutinized Presidents

By JAMES PERRY

Dow Jones-Ottaway News Service

He is honest, straightforward, open, frank, genuine, loyal, decent, kind, agreeable, friendly, respectable, and upright.

So's my Uncle Harry.

Presidents of the United States are supposed to be honest and genuine, decent and respectable. Before Nixon and Johnson, most of them were, some of the time.

Gerald Ford has been President almost a year now, long enough for us to get over our surprise that he is not a crook. It's about time we began looking at him in ways we used to look at Presidents, before Nixon.

And if we look at Gerald Ford that way, we find that he is a classical, traditional, big business, low tax, $2 Nassau, Beef eater martini Republican. He's the same fellow from Grand Rapids who voted for the war, against aid to education, for big defense spending, against water-pollution remedies, for bombing Cambodia, against mass transit.

"Hard work should be rewarded," he told John Hersey recently. "I enjoy material things," the President said. "I enjoy nice clothes, not flamboyant or extravagant. I enjoy doing nice things. But I enjoy doing these things because I worked for them."

Say that for Jerry Ford, he works hard and plays hard. He was 62 two weeks ago and he said he felt like a man of 40. I believe him. He rushes from Air Force One to Marine helicopter One to the first tee, then back to the locker room, then off to the tennis court. He goes 18 hours a day until, it seems, he's ready to fall down a flight of stairs out of sheer exhaustion.

Physically (except for a trick right knee), he is in extraordinary shape. For an old football center, he plays a pretty fair game of tennis and a barely passable game of golf. He keeps his weight down by eating a ball of cottage cheese smothered in A1 sauce for lunch. Sometimes, he indulges himself with a scoop of butter pecan ice cream.

He obviously enjoys being President. You get to wear nice clothes, go to nice places and work hard as hell. If you believe in upward mobility and the work ethic, you can't beat being President of the United States.

His recent trip to Traverse City, Chicago, and Mackinac Island was billed as a "nonpolitical" outing, but obviously it wasn't. It took the President and his entourage to mid-America and back, and we paid for it.

Ford may be honest and decent, a middle-American himself, but he — like our other recent presidents — travels around this country and the world in a style that would stupefy a sybarite. The imperial presidency lives.

This was the first political expedition of his presidential campaign. It was a practice round, and he needed it.

For a man who has been in public life for almost 30 years, Ford remains a terrible public speaker. Recently, he hired Bob Mead, a CBS producer, to fix things up. But he still stumbles along, and when he departs from his text it's like the age of exploration all over again.

It's Lewis and Clark heading into the trackless wilderness and you wonder if Ford, like them will ever get back. It lends unexpected excitement to the tedious texts prepared by his uninspired team of speech writers.

But Ford is trying to be the President, thereby cutting off challenges within and without the Republican Party. He came close, but no cigar. Ronald Reagan, who does know how to give a speech — the same damn speech he's been giving for 25 years — consented two weeks ago to the formation of a committee supporting his nomination. That makes him, legally, a candidate.

Reagan, a wit has suggested, is the evil of two lessers. In fact, there's not much difference between Ford and Reagan. Ford's conservatism may be a little more traditional. Reagan is more a cold war warrior and he's probably fire Kissinger and have done with detente.

But Jerry Ford is the President. He rescued the Mayaguez. He humiliated the Democrats in Congress with those four vetoes. He wears the presidential seal on his cuff links.

He's not just honest, straightforward Jerry Ford who falls down airplane ramps. This is a tough, hard-line, conservative, big-business Jerry Ford whose cronies work for U.S. Steel and Ford Motor, the kind of fellow who might not be depressed if gasoline prices soared to $1 a gallon.

He'll be hard to beat. He'll get better, because he can take more practice rounds in the weeks and months ahead and we will pay for them, one way or another.

Turkey's weight disproportionate

It's intriguing to watch a small nation like Turkey playing essentially power politics with a super-power like the United States.

It reminds us of a novel written by Leonard Wibberly back in the '60s entitled "The Mouse That Roared," in which a tiny principality came into possession of the Ultimate Weapon and dictated peace terms to the entire world.

But that is the way the world runs now. The big, powerful nations are handcuffed in the United Nations by a coalition of small, virtually powerless nations of the Third World. The militarily weak nations of the Middle East dictate terms to the industrialized world on the basis of their oil monopoly. And Turkey can throw the defensive alignment of the West into disarray because it isn't getting what it wants — in this case, additional arms to make up for those lost or used in the assault on Cyprus.

It's sort of like a pet store run by a giant bear (call it Russia, if you will) and a massive tiger (tab that one the United States). The smaller animals run amok and do whatever they please, knowing that the big guys don't dare throw their weight around, because if they did they would wreck the shop beyond repair.

A hasty analogy, but we think it's accurate. A century ago, perhaps less, we would have sent in the Marines with Air Corps cover to let the Turks know they couldn't carry off matters with such a high hand. But now, Russia, or perhaps China, but more likely Mid-eastern neighbors would intervene and the threat of nuclear confrontation and holocaust would arise.

Neither the United States nor the world can accept such a prospect. So in our strength lies our weakness and a tiny nation like Turkey can say, in effect, all right, if I don't get my way, I'm picking up my marbles and going home.

What can we do? In this particular case, we don't know. But we think it points up the extreme desirability of not just nuclear non-proliferation treaties, but of nuclear disarmament treaties. In other words, the banning of the atom as an instrument of war.

As it is, we're not entirely convinced that nuclear parity and the threat of universal destruction is that much of a deterrent to Armageddon. Defenders of that approach are fond of saying, "Why, no one would dare drop a nuclear bomb." Well, someone did. Twice. Us.

Women's issue set

By RAY PATTON

The only United States stamp scheduled for release is the 10-cent commemorative for the International Women's Year, August 26 at Seneca Falls, N.Y.

The Postal Service has on its list for release during the balance of 1975 four stamps for the Bicentennial of the USPS; two stamps for Banking and Commerce and a stamp listed as Special Occasion (like the "LOVE" stamp) but no subject has been decided upon; and the Christmas Stamps.

These have not been officially put in the schedule for where they will be released or on what date they will be available.

Canada's Olympic stamps will be released August 6 to help support the Olympics. The assumption is that the United States Postal Service will release only one issue at a time for the balance of this year as it waits for the decision permitting them to raise the postal rates. This of course determines the value of the new issue, thus the one at a time schedule.

The president of the electric company was addressing the club. "The electric company," he said, "has played an integral part in the development of this community. I might well say, to make a pun, 'Honor the Light Brigade.'"

Easy living at the Fed

Nicholas Von Hoffman

WASHINGTON — Last year the Federal Reserve System spent $8,204 to move one of its employees the long distance from Jacksonville, Fla., to Atlanta, Ga.

The Fed has assets of almost $114 billion, mostly in the form of U.S. Government securities on which you and I pay the Fed nearly $6 billion a year in interest. It is these profits which permit the Fed to be so understanding about moving expenses; they also enable the Fed to escape going to Congress for an annual appropriation as every other part of our government — even the meenie-poos of the CIA — must do.

The Fed spends as it pleases and answers questions about itself only when it cares to. In addition to its wealth and profits, this agency also handles transactions totaling over $30 trillion a year, and all of this happens without an outside audit. The Pentagon is subject to outside audit, the White House is subject to outside audit, but the Fed audits itself and asks us to take its word for its honesty, frugality and sagacity.

Recently that marvelous, old-time Texas Fed fighter, Rep. Wright Patman, has had his staff look into how this unique agency spends the public's money running itself. In the last decade the Fed's expenses have gone up almost 200 percent to a total of close to $600 million. (The profits the Fed doesn't spend on itself are turned in to the Treasury.)

Amusing items

Here are a few amusing items. Last year the New York Federal Reserve Bank spent $4,749 for office Christmas decorations. It also spent $9.67 for bowling score sheets, $1,372 on membership dues to the Council of Foreign Relations, $123,073 on American Airlines tickets and $119.32 on golf fees.

The Louisville branch of the St. Louis Fed blew $1,226 on booze and dinner for 19 people. Houston treated itself to a $2,172 luncheon. The Chicago Fed found a way to spend $122,000 recruiting new employees, while the larger New York Bank said it could do the same job for under $10,000. Given the thousands and thousands of dollars in bills the Fed piled up on jewelry, flowers, limousines, parties and other forms of recreation, you wouldn't imagine they'd have to spend anything on recruitment.

Fed employees even have two pension plans. A regular government type and something called the Thrift Plan, a mutual fund to which the agency has generously contributed more than $10 million from 1970 when it was begun to the end of 1974. Last year the Fed kicked in another $270,000 for athletic activities and to the Federal Reserve Clubs which put on picnics, parties and other fun activities for Fed chairman Arthur Burns' overworked and underpaid employees.

If, in a private business, the stockholders want to spend their money that way, there would be no reason to take exception. What is eyebrow lifting here is that the Fed is a public agency operating as though it were a private one. That is exactly what some of the opponents of the original Federal Reserve Act back in 1913 predicted would happen. No, President Wilson assured them, the law "provides for public instead of private control, this making the banks what they should be — servants and not the masters of business...With government control, there is created a force which, while it will not attempt to run the business of the banks, will be clothed with some authority to prevent injustice from the banks to the general public. Under the proposed plan, recognition is given the interests of the people, and there is established the principle of some other control of credit than arbitrary control by the banks....This is a great principle."

Banker bosses

It is also a dead one. The hundreds of thousands of dollars the Patman staff report shows the Fed spends on pouring Scotch over the rocks is less important than the evidence demonstrating the degree to which the banking industry can get what it wants from the Fed. Why, for example, should the Fed provide the banking industry with $47 million worth of free armored car service? More millions are being spent by the Fed to develop automated currency handling equipment for the industry. Aren't these the ordinary costs of doing business which every private enterprise can be reasonably expected to bear for itself?

The Patman report also raises the question of some very gross sorts of conflict of interest in the Fed's hiring of compromised persons as consultants from the banking industry and its professorial apologists in the universities. Beyond that kind of garden variety wishfulness, we have officers of the Federal Reserve personally owning more than $100 million worth of stocks while making official decisions which can affect their price on every stock exchange in America. Lastly, there is the question of the Fed's using its power to make the banks bail out failing, inefficient and possibly corrupt corporations. Junk socialism to save the rich and the stupid from the consequences of their own business incompetence. Without an outside audit these practices can't be prohibited; they can't even be properly detected and understood. The Fed needs a lot of fundamental new legislation besides a compulsory outside audit, but Mr. Patman's bill to make the Fed show its books is a necessary beginning to give us what Woodrow Wilson said would be ours 62 years ago.

Stories Behind Words

By William Penfield

Husband

England during feudal times had what might be called a middle class. There were the nobility and the serfs, who lived and worked on the large estates of the nobility.

In between these two classes were the freeholders, each of whom had been given a house and a few acres of land because of some meritorious service he had performed.

Another name for a freeholder was "husband," from the Anglo-Saxon "husbonda" (house-owner). To a young woman of the lower classes, who had no chance of marrying a nobleman, a "husband" was a good marital catch, hence "husband" acquired the meaning of a male spouse.

Rockwell 'always ready'

WASHINGTON — The Coast Guard, whose motto "Semper Paratus" means "Always Ready," seems ready to throw a $500 million aircraft deal to Rockwell International and to mislead Congress about it.

The intricate scheme is revealed in voluminous Coast Guard, industry and congressional documents in our hands. Based on his own investigation, Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., as a former House Coast Guard subcommittee chairman, is determined to torpedo the bonanza.

At issue are 41 new medium-range planes which the Coast Guard is buying to replace its present fleet of coast-watchers. Total costs, including parts, will easily run to a half-billion dollars over the lifetimes of the planes.

When the decision was made in 1971 to outfit the Coast Guard with the patrol planes, there was every appearance that all potential manufacturers would get a crack at the handsome contract.

This would have assured the best break for the taxpayer. But by August 1973, the memos show, the Coast Guard's plan for competitive bidding unaccountably had been put aside.

In its place, the memos indicate a noncompetitive contract was to be awarded and the "specs" show that only one U.S. bidder would qualify. The firm was Rockwell International.

Competing aircraft makers roared. Grumman wrote Rep. Murphy that the Coast Guard was "leading on . . . Grumman, Falcon Jet, Gates, Lear Jet (and) Cessna under the pretense of an impending open competition." In fact, said Grumman, the Department of Transportation, which oversees the Coast Guard, had already picked Rockwell.

Further evidence that a "fix" was in came when the Coast Guard's chief procurement officer, with shocking candor, told a meeting of planemakers and others that "I have already made up my mind."

Shortly before the Coast Guard could hand the $500 million contract to Rockwell, Murphy got his Irish up and told the Coast Guard he would blow the whistle unless they guaranteed free competition. A few hours before he was to testify, however, the Coast Guard capitulated. Commandant Adm. Chester Bender agreed to

Letters to the editor

Editor, The Record:

To turn a profit; to make a buck; is important to all men: So as to eat, support a family, raise a bank account, pay bills, buy a "holy grail" reach of Cadillac or Chris Craft, or braces for today's growing teeth.

Perhaps it is the writer's misinterpretation of the nation's 200th birthday.

Do we give it gifts, expect to be given gifts, or sell balloons and candles to the kids? Is it a commemoration, or a time to bring out the family album of Yankee Doodle child in swaddling clothes and ooh and ah!

Is it a commemoration, or a time to realize the very special meaning of the country and nation spawned from our heritage of principle and form of government; envied by all nations who have benefited from our strength of young blood (some dead) from our wealth (some mispent).

Might it not be better to more closely examine just what America means on our 200th birthday — rather than to sell souvenirs.

Should it not be better advised to seek strength from the past so as to create again the tomorrows for our children; and theirs...?

Cruelty to animals

Editor, The Record:

I just read with disgust Lora Sharpe's article on the SPCA. Why don't you inform Monroe Countians and visitors what will happen to their pets if left in the SPCA's care?

We had a stray cat come to our home and have her kittens. As it turned out I had to help deliver the three kittens. We kept them seven weeks (I worked in a supermarket and asked every customer that came in if he or she wanted one) before we called and took the family to the SPCA.

When we got there and found all the cages empty except for one, I asked if the animals were adopted quickly. The man replied, "No, we keep them two or three days and then kill them." No nicer than that, just, "we kill them."

My husband took the mother and babies and we left with them, and with tears in our eyes. I couldn't even talk or tell that cruel person, with a dog and two cats and a tank of gerbils at home, what would a few more mean? We were lucky enough to finally find homes for the kittens and the mother still lives with us.

I'm not the only one I know who would rather keep too many pets than to send them to their deaths!

open the field to all planemakers.

But despite the agreement the documents strongly indicate that the Coast Guard rigged the contract a second time. The new "specs" also lean to such special Rockwell features as electric foot-warmers, seats with custom corners and deflatable entrance seals.

The new Coast Guard commandant, Adm. Owen Siler, vigorously defended the fairness of the procurement and denied any outside pressure. "There was no other American airplane that would come close," he explained. Nevertheless, he is still exploring other possibilities.

Footnote: This is not Rockwell's first gusher from the government. In an earlier column, we told how it unloaded an out-of-the-way $20 million building on the government in exchange for far more desirable federal holdings.

AGAINST THE GRAIN: Two Midwestern grain companies have monopolized some $275 million worth of blended grain sales to the Agriculture Department which has supinely helped perpetuate the costly monopoly.

A General Accounting Office report roasts the Agriculture Department for caving in to the two companies. The report fails to identify them, but we have learned they are Krause Milling Co., Milwaukee, and Lauhoff Grain Co., Danville, Ill.

Between them they control 95 per cent of sales to Agriculture of a high-protein blend of corn, soybeans and milk donated to hungry nations. The reason for this lopsided market, our probe shows, is that Agriculture's specifications are tailored to the two firms' products.

James Schlick, deputy head of the blended food program at Agriculture, stoutly defended his policies toward Lauhoff and Krause.

A time for not giving

Poconos tarnishing

Editor, The Record:

After reading in The Pocono Record what a lady said from Mt. Pocono that the beauty of the Poconos are sure going, I lived in the Poconos all my life and I can see it going fast.

Billboards are taking the place of trees; there are seven right up from me which look terrible.

We used to have a million dollar hotel here which has been closed, also movies in the summer three times a week. A drug store, A&P store — all gone. Had five girls' and boys' camps in summer which brought a lot of life and money into the place. Work was plenty for those who wanted to work. It seems too much trouble to even have the Community Christmas Tree trimmed at Christmas. I think we are the only community who does not have our tree trimmed.

There are old buildings, old cars that have been sitting around for about 15 years; they should be torn down and taken away.

People have written to the township supervisors but nothing's been done about it.

People come into the community, buy up our lakes and streams and our children have no place to fish or go swimming. Yes, we have a pool, but children like to swim in lakes where there are beaches.

No no-fault rule

Editor, The Record:

Now that No-Fault Auto Insurance has more or less gone into effect, we find that the state is going to have a tough time enforcing the law.

Would you believe that they don't even have a way to be sure that each and every vehicle in Pennsylvania is covered by insurance? In other compulsory insurance states you must show proof of insurance coverage before your vehicle is registered. Not here!

Would you believe that it is estimated that in Philadelphia alone no more than 50 per cent of the drivers are covered by insurance?

Would you believe that these same drivers are the ones who come to our Pocono Mountains as tourists, crowding our highways, creating at least some of our accidents? Which is one of the reasons our insurance rates are among the highest in the state.

Would you believe our men in Harrisburg need to do a little more work on our No-Fault Insurance law?

Japanese teen hijacks airliner

TOKYO (UPI) — An unarmed 17-year-old high school student hijacked a Japanese jetliner carrying 286 persons on a domestic flight “on the spur of the moment” Monday and ordered it flown to Hawaii or Okinawa.

Instead, the pilot landed in Tokyo, where security guards disguised as airlines employees overpowered the youth. Nobody was hurt.

“I had not a slightest idea (of hijacking the plane) when I boarded the plane,” Hidekatsu Oshima told investigators after he was arrested. “But I had an irresistible urge and I did it on the spur of the moment.”

Police said the youth commandeered the All Nippon Airways Lockheed L1011 Tri-star shortly after the wide-bodied jetliner took off from Tokyo.

According to the pilot, Oshima knocked on the cockpit door three times and slipped inside, his hand thrust into his pocket as if he were holding a weapon.

Congressional roll call

OTTAWA NEWS SERVICE Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — In key roll call votes last week, the Senate extended the Voting Rights Act for another seven years, after putting off further consideration of the disputed New Hampshire senatorial race until September.

The House dealt the Ford administration two blows by rejecting bills to resume U.S. military sales to Turkey and lift price controls on oil over a 30-month period.

The Senate: — A bill extending the 1965 Voting Rights Act for seven years, passed 77-12.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., yes; Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., yes.

— An amendment extending the act for seven years instead of 10, as called for in the house version of the bill, passed 52-42.

Scott, no; Schweiker, no. An amendment that sought to make the provisions of the act applicable to all states, tabled 58-38.

Scott, yes; Schweiker, yes. — A motion to delay further consideration of the disputed New Hampshire senatorial contest until September, passed 45-41.

State legislative roll call

OTTAWA NEWS SERVICE Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania legislature failed in its try this week to override Gov. Milton J. Shapp's veto of legislation that would have stripped the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission of the power to order local school districts to desegregate racially by means of busing programs.

The House of Representatives delivered the votes to override, but the Senate could not. Both chambers needed a three-fourths majority to achieve the override.

The House voted 147-46 to override.

Reps. Raphael Musto, D-Luzerne, Russell Kowalshyn, D-Northampton, and William Foster, R-Wayne, all voted to override.

The Senate voted 28-20 to override, but needed 34 votes in order to meet the three-fourths requirement.

Sen. T. Newell Wood, R-Luzerne, voted for the override. Sen. Frederick H. Hobbs, R-Schuylkill, did not vote.

In other key votes this week: The House approved 187-0 legislation to provide a state program for resolving the medical malpractice insurance problems faced by Commonwealth physicians.

Musto, Kowalshyn and Foster voted for the bill.

The House also voted 174-18 to approve legislation that would require farmers to pay migrant workers the minimum wage.

Musto, Kowalshyn and Foster, voted for the bill.

The malpractice and migrant labor bills now go to the Senate for consideration.

$10 billion asked to help blacks

ATLANTA (UPI) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said Monday the 1930s Great Depression never really ended for blacks and called for a $10 billion program to make the federal government “an employer of last resort.” “Poverty hits blacks disproportionately,” he told the National Urban League. “While blacks represent slightly more than 10 per cent of all persons in the nation, they comprise about 30 per cent of 441 Americans who live in poverty.”

Brooke, the only black member of the Senate, said black unemployment is 25.8 per cent and 41 per cent among black teenagers. Black workers often hold menial jobs, he said, averaging 58 per cent of the earnings of the average white employee.

He said even during the economic boom of the 1960s “the black unemployment rate at its best never equaled the white unemployment rate at its worst.”

Brooke said Americans “can no longer glorify the work ethic” or look down on those who are involuntarily unemployed.

“It is past time for the government to step in to provide jobs when the private sector is unable to do so,” said Brooke. “The cost of having the government act as an employer of last resort would not be as great as many suppose.”

“The costs of finding a net total of one million public service jobs would be $10 billion,” he said. Brooke said the buying power and government administrative needs generated by those paychecks would create an additional one million jobs.

Cigarette firms can use billboards for advertising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission has turned down a petition to ban the use of billboards for cigarette advertising, it was learned Monday.

But at the same time the FTC has decided to seek fines against six major tobacco companies for allegedly failing to adequately display the printed health warning required in all cigarette advertising. The fines could amount to millions of dollars.

The actions were taken by the agency last week, according to FTC sources. They have not yet been officially announced.

The petition that was turned down was filed by Action on Smoking and Health, an anti-smoking group. It contended that billboards — frequently through the use of cowboys, athletes and other healthy, happy figures — misrepresented the health impact of cigarettes, especially where children are concerned.

It also contended that occupants of a car speeding by on the highway could not read the health warning printed on the signs. Cigarette advertising has been banned on television for several years, and the anti-smoking group argued billboards should be treated the same way.

But the commission turned down the appeal, electing to concentrate instead on the health warning issue.

Wyckoff Shopper

If I was a bell I'd be ringing!! Wouldn't you if you suddenly saw the nicest things printed about Wyckoff's in a NATIONAL publication!!?

"Stores," the monthly magazine published by the National Retailers Merchandise Association "surprised" us with a full page article by John S. Kelly who represented the NRMA at the Founders Day luncheon that honored Ernest H. Wyckoff! Mr. Kelly has been a long time friend of Wyckoff's, and so it was with a great deal of sincerity and love that he set down his thoughts about "PaPa," his interest in the community, and the store of which he is so proud!! I'll tell you, Mr. Kelly is some kind of writer, and he didn't miss one single thing on that lovely day . . . . . and he touched our hearts as well as touching the "heart" of "Wyckoff's, The Friendly Store!!" To John Kelly . . . thank you . . . for being our friend, and we shall strive to continue the tradition nurtured by Ernest Wyckoff which you so kindly called, "retailing at its best!!"

While we are ringing those bells . . . whether we believe it or not, SCHOOLBELLS are going to be ringing in the not too distant future! (Oh, yes, you MAY join the greek chorus heard in the background chanting "Where, Oh, Where Did The Summer Go!!????") Time waits for no man . . . and on Friday, Wyckoff's and Seventeen Magazine will kick off the fashion "football" for the Back To School Game! From kindergarten to graduate student . . . boys and girls, men and women . . . Wyckoff's have the "spirit," and we will write it on our slate in capital letters! WYCKOFF'S HAVE THIS FALL'S BACK-TO-CLASS-CONCIOUS-CLOTHES!!! It's time to think about pitching out those jeans and getting into the dress "get-ups!!" This fall's fashions have traveled the world over . . . from foreign origins stretching from Old World jumpers, South American sweater knits and Chinese quiltwear to good old American collegiate corduroy classics! Lets' face facts!! Fall is exciting . . . and even though we have many of the hazy, lazy, crazy days of summer left to enjoy, we MUST keep step with the calendar, and it spells back to school.; so look for our Back To School Kickoff, and come and enjoy values that would bring joy as the apple for the Teacher on the first day of school!

Now . . . before I leave my post as bell ringer for the day . . . a word to the gal who really would like to ring a few bells of her own!! PLEASE take a minute to peek at the new "Star" at home caftans and lounging robes in our lingerie department!!!! WOW!! These are so beautiful we guarantee you will feel like Loretta Young when you enter the room in one of them. They are the PERFECT answer to that VERY necessary "something comfortable to slip into" after a hard day at the desk, ironing, jilneying, etc. etc. etc. . . . AND just fabulous for patio and poolside!! Floaty, feminine, and priced from only $11.00 to around $25.00!! I don't believe them for that price, and you won't either and will want several!! Give yourself a present today . . . I Aw, g'wan . . . all it'll do is make you feel better!! It'll "ring bells," that's what it will do!!!

Come to think of it, Wyckoff's are kinda' famous for "ringing bells," and EVERY day is a day for discovery. You can't stay away for too long because you'll miss something if you do!! New things, fascinating things, beautiful things, useful things . . . delightful things, practical things arrive daily . . . so come see us . . . enjoy luncheon in our air-conditioned tearoom . . . or a snack from the Snack Shack on the Plaza! We're celebrating our 100th year and that's REAL reason to "ring bells" . . . but it won't be any fun if YOU don't share it with us at Wyckoff's, the Friendly Store, 100 years YOUNG and STILL going strong!!!

Your Horoscope

Frances Drake

LEO

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Unless you have other commitments which will take up too much of your time, this would be a good day in which to start a brand-new project — even, perhaps, in another field.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Venus highly favorable. Follow up inspired plans with creative accomplishment. As with Aries, you could now take up a new venture if the odds seem to be on your side.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Planetary influences now stimulate your imagination, ingenuity and incentive. This is the time to reach for top goals.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — A shifting of certain situations indicated; some conditions changing. You should be in on the movements and plans.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — This is a day for aggressive action — which the Leoite always enjoys. Aim for your objectives in swift, sure manner. On the personal side: Romance highly favored.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Better-than-average influences but, in general, you will fare better at routine activities than in starting new enterprises. Watch the budget.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Fine planetary influences now stimulate your lively imagination, spark new and lofty ambitions, give you a fresh outlook on life.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23) — Here is a chance for your special gifts of inspirational planning and organizing, under either revised or completely new methods. Do make the most of it!

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — Mixed influences. Plan now to clear up any confusing situations. Security must be built up on a sound basis. Intelligently productive methods needed.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Invest time and energies only in projects worthy of your endeavor. In a rush to accomplish, however, don't by-pass details.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Uranus somewhat adverse. Watch for irritating situations and bridge them amicably and with unbiased opinion. Move briskly into productive areas.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — A more or less average day. Better finish, or at least further current project. Starting new undertakings without proper preparation could lead to disappointment.

YOU BORN TODAY are well-endowed mentally; often achieve physically as well — as, for instance, in the world of sports; can attain in almost any field in which you are interested.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Bridge is much more a question of how many or how few mistakes you make rather than how frequently you make brilliant bids or plays.

Oddly enough, the most common errors are due to the tendency of players to follow general rules blindly — instead of branching out on their own when the situation calls for it.

Consider this deal where West was faced with the problem of what to lead after cashing the A-K-Q of clubs. Actually, he led a spade, hoping to find his partner with the king, and declarer easily made the contract.

But this was not a very good play for West to make. He should have realized that not only was South highly likely to have the king of spades for his opening bid, but that even if East had the king there was nothing to be gained by leading a spade at this point.

Instead, West should have played the four of clubs at trick four! This would have cut declarer down to size after East ruffed with the ten and made West's jack the setting trick.

West should reason that not only is there a reasonable chance of finding partner with a high trump — in which case the fourth club lead will beat the contract — but that nothing will be lost if East does not have a high trump to ruff with. It must be granted that a defender seldom makes a play of the type recommended here — because most of us have been indoctrinated with the precept that you never give declarer a ruff and discard.

However, this is not really a ruff-and-discard situation where declarer can gain a trick by the club lead, and it therefore behooves West to fire a club at declarer at trick four because it offers by far the best chance of stopping the contract.

Dropped waist headline at Paris fashion shows

PARIS (UPI) — The Paris high fashion winter collections unrolled beginning Monday and the big news is that Yves Saint Laurent is dropping the waistline.

Twenty-three houses are displaying their wares to the world fashion press and a few buyers who still can afford the trip in these recession days.

On the eve of the shows, the houses were loudly hinting to the press what they planned to unveil. The most talk among the fashion crowd was that Saint Laurent, and thus everybody else, was sticking to the narrow but supple look, a cross between the short-lived tube and equally short-lived voluminous looks. And the waistline would be long and low, according to salon reports.

Since Saint Laurent ideas infiltrate the world's mass clothing industries more than any other designer's, it appeared likely that women's natural waistlines might begin to disappear next winter.

Dior's surprises were said to include hooded military coats and "ski jackets" in luxurious fabrics trimmed with fur and teamed with pleated skirts like long kilts.

The Jean Patou salon promised dresses without absolutely one seam, but made of squares of silk crepe knitted together.

Emanuel Ungaro's surprise will be dresses worn over matching trousers, a 2 in 1 bargain, salon sources said. Pants indeed have not yet been added to limbo with Ted Lapidus also showing travel outfits of trousers matching duffle coats.

Although dresses and suits were said to remain close to the body, the houses planned to show plenty of billowing capes and coats cut extra full like panchos, spokesmen for the designers said.

WINTER BERMUDAS — Parisian designer Torrente presents these rust tweed pants and matching sweater and hat in his autumn-winter collection. (UPI)

Another Dior creation was said to be ankle-length slim evening dresses of silk jersey worn with black, mannish smoking jackets or jewel-encrusted cardigansweaters.

Salon reports also predicted masculine tailored daytime suits, tunic dresses, pleated skirts and matching coat, skirt and vest outfits.

The hemline still will more than cover the knee, ranging from a hand's width below the kneecap to mid-calf, more or less the same length as last winter.

Warranty rules proposed

Dow Jones-Offaway News Service

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has proposed a series of rules describing warranties and responsibilities of the person or company providing the warranty.

The rules will be part of a set of regulations proposed to implement the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act. They include requirements for full, comprehensible, and readily available warranties, as well as methods of consumer-manufacturer dispute settlement.

Written warranties would have to include the warrant-tor's full name and address, what is covered and what is excluded by the warranty, what the warrantor will do if the product is defective, the duration of warranty coverage, and an outline of any steps the consumer must take to have the warranty honored.

Full warranty terms would have to be made available before purchase upon request; notice of availability of terms would be required on product tags or labels. Dispute-settlement procedures would have to be provided in detail.

Interested parties may submit written comments on the proposed rules and participate in public hearings scheduled to be held in Washington, D. C. Sept. 15, Chicago on Sept. 22 and Los Angeles on Sept. 29.

Supermarket chain cited

A second supermarket chain has been cited by the Federal Trade Commission for alleged mispricing and unavailability of advertised goods.

The agency issued a complaint against the Kroger Co. which is headquartered in Cincinnati, Ohio, and has some 1,200 stores in 20 states.

In Italy, straight skirts dominate fashion showing

ROME (UPI) — Italy's high fashion designers are betting heavily on the straight skirt for next winter but hedging with plenty of pants.

The look that emerged from five days of shows by 30 of Italy's top designers also called for turtle-neck sweaters, tunics, big shawls, wide belts, boots or walking shoes and maybe a knit helmet.

After several seasons of playing with the return of the 1940s pencil skirt, the designers, by that strange osmosis that seems to affect the fashion world finally came up with a version authoritative enough to catch hold.

But it's not for every woman. In its purest form, the skirt is snug over the hips and falls in a narrow tube to about midcalf. Some designers, like Princess Irene Galitzine of Rome, showed a less molded tube and a wrapped skirt with a bit of gathering at the waist that made less demands on the figure.

Only Valentino and Mila Schoen of Milan also showed gathered or pleated skirts for daytime.

Pants came back in much the same style as most women have been wearing them all along, but Mila Schoen had hers tucked into cut-off boots, and Fendi's Karl Lagerfeld gathered his with elastic or a button tab at the ankle.

Because of the worldwide economic crisis, the turnout of buyers was meager this year — with only 28 sending advance notices of their attendance — but there was the usual turnout of celebrities that made the Italian High Fashion Chamber show the usual social event.

Among those making appearances were Princess Ira Von Furstenberg and Bianca Jagger, wife of Rolling Stone Mick Jagger, who arrived in her husband's karate suit because an airline had lost her luggage.

Valentino, whom Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis crowned the king of Italian fashion, produced unlined capes, tunics with shirt-tails and Japanese obi belts and kimono wrap outfits. His entire daytime collection was in beige and he used a lot of cherry blossom pink for evening.

Tudor England comes to Ritz Playhouse

HAWLEY — England's Tudor dynasty takes over in Hawley when the Ritz Company Playhouse offers its production of Maxwell Anderson's "Anne of the Thousand Days" Aug. 1 to 3, with the curtain at 8:30 p.m. each day.

The tale of Anne Boleyn illustrates her determination to marry Henry VIII and assure the succession of her child to the throne. This determination led to her early death and to England's break with the Roman Church.

Starring in the title role of the girl who first would not become Henry's mistress and then agreed to be his wife only if her child could sit on England's throne is Marjorie C. Murphy, leading star of the company.

Appearing opposite her as the dominant Henry is Ed Buckmaster.

The worldly Cardinal Wolsey who made possible Henry's divorce is played by Barry Kmiecick. Floyd Gumble is the ambitious Duke of Norfolk, Anne's uncle.

Buckmaster is directing the production as well as supervising set design. Costumes are by Beth McQueen and lights by Richard W. Murphy.

More women on road

Female accident rate up

NEW YORK — Although female drivers have long been the butt of "woman driver" jokes, their safety records have been statistically superior to their male counterparts behind the wheel.

However, recent statistics from the National Safety Council indicate women may be catching up.

The rate for motor vehicle accidents decreased for males and increased for female drivers in the decade beginning with the sixties.

In 1970, deaths from motor vehicle accidents outnumbered all other types of accidental deaths for females up to age 60. At present, motor vehicle deaths outnumber cancer as the No. 1 killer of women in the 25 to 29 age group, reports the Institute of Life Insurance.

One reason for the increase in female accidents is that there were simply more women on the road in the past decade.

There were more drivers in general and people were driving faster than they did a decade earlier.

Despite the rise in women's car accidents, though, the Safety Council estimates that there are three times as many male drivers involved in accidents as female drivers.

The motor vehicle death rate did decline in 1974 by 20 per cent due to lower speeds at which vehicles were driven to conserve gasoline.

However, the Safety Council has evidence that night driving is hazardous. In all fatal accidents, 47 per cent were in daylight hours and 53 per cent were at night.

The reasons for this are probably poor visibility, driver fatigue and the greater likelihood of drunken drivers being on the road.

Public education campaigns, says the Institute, can help cut down accident rates. Women's organizations might consider sponsoring an eight-hour Defensive Driving course developed by the National Safety Council.

Tomato canning procedure

By MRS. DAWN OLSON
Asst. Home Economist

Cooperative Extension Service

Jars of home canned tomatoes will help you stretch your food dollar next winter. Canned tomatoes can be served in many ways as vegetables, or in a variety of casseroles, soups and stews.

Be sure tomatoes are at the right maturity for canning. Neither overly ripe nor green tomatoes should be processed in the boiling water bath canner. Tomatoes should be harvested when fruits are uniformly red but still firm. When necessary, tomatoes can be held several days before processing.

Tomatoes may be packed either raw or hot in the jars. Most authorities recommend the hot pack method because it makes a nice pack. But whether you use the hot pack or the raw pack, always process tomatoes in the boiling water bath.

Once jars and lids are prepared, (we recommend the two-piece metal lid), wash tomatoes well under running water or in several changes of water. Even though tomatoes will be peeled, you should wash them thoroughly first, because dirt contains some of the hardest bacteria to kill. Lift tomatoes from the water to keep them clean.

Next, dip tomatoes in boiling water for about one-half minute — just long enough to loosen the skins. If tomatoes are left in the boiling water longer, the outside becomes mushy.

Then dip them in cold water to stop the heat treatment. Take tomatoes out of cold water or they will lose flavor and food value. Handle tomatoes gently to prevent bruising, and work with only as many as you will process at one time. A colander will help with this heat treatment and cooling of tomatoes.

Put the rack in the bottom of the boiling water bath canner about half full of water. Put canner on a burner to heat.

Slip skins from tomatoes and remove the cores, making sure all the white part of the core is removed. Cut tomatoes into pieces and heat to boiling in a large pan. Do not add water. Tomatoes make their own juice. Stir to prevent sticking.

Put one teaspoon canning salt in each quart jar; one-half teaspoon in each pint. If you prefer, tomatoes may be canned without salt. Flavor, color and texture are better when this amount of salt is added. Using a jar funnel, put hot tomatoes and juice in each jar, filling to one-half inch of the top. Work out air bubbles with a thin, narrow spatula or knife.

Add more juice if needed. Wipe top rim with a clean paper towel, as any trace of juice on the top edge of the jar will prevent the lid from sealing properly. Place flat metal lid on jar with sealing compound next to jar. Screw lid down tightly.

Place jars on rack in canner. Jars should not touch each other or the side of canner.

Add hot water until water is at least one inch over the tops of jars. Put lid on canner and bring water to a boil. When water starts to boil again, start counting processing time. Process quarts 45 minutes; pints 35 minutes. Add more hot water as needed to keep boiling water at least one inch above the tops of jars during the entire processing time.

When processing time is up, take jars from canner. Do not touch lids or screw bands. Place jars right side up on towel or rack away from drafts. Jars should not touch each other so they will cool better. Do NOT tighten screw bands — the two-piece lid is self sealing and should NOT be tightened after processing. Lids will seal with a snapping sound as each jar cools.

Jars should not be moved for at least 12 hours, preferably 24 hours. Test the seal of each jar. Remove screw bands, wipe jars clean, and store in a clean, cool, dry, dark place.

Stegowagenvolksaurus

Auto depicted as modern dinosaur

STROUDSBURG — Grant Terrill, director for the Monroe County Arts Council, was the principal assistant on the Stegowagenvolksaurus, one artists statement about the energy crisis.

Terrill worked on the project while he was a graduate student at the University of Cincinnati under the artist Ms. Patricia Renick, an assistant professor of art education at the university. The work is on display at the university.

The name "Stegowagenvolksaurus" is a composite of Stegosaurus, a breed of dinosaur having large fins or shingles projecting from its backbone, and Volkswagen.

In the piece, the Volkswagen is used to symbolize automobiles and is not meant to single out one automobile brand.

The steel body panels of a 1983 Volkswagen were used, while the dinosaur parts were sculpted in clay and cast in polyester resin.

The work is over 22 feet long and 12 feet high and weighs approximately 1,200 pounds. It took a year to build at a cost of $10,000.

During the molding and finishing stages of the sculpture, the artist and assistants were permitted to work round the clock at a factory.

Dam vote freeze requested

STROUDSBURG — The Tocks Island Lake project restudy does not answer the question it should, according to the League of Women Voters' Interleague Council of the Delaware Basin.

In a telegram it will send today to the governors of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, the council calls for a delay in a final Tocks decision until all questions have been satisfactorily answered.

The council conducted a workshop on Tocks Island on April 17 in Delaware Water Gap. Its statement on the project is partially a result of the workshop and research by council members, according to a spokesman.

The council addresses the study with two major points. They are:

— Inadequate information has been gathered to assure the public that all commitments for water supply can be met. More information is needed on water storage and release schedules.

— There is no proof that a flow of 3,000 cubic feet per second is absolutely necessary for the Delaware River at Trenton.

The council said salt water contamination of Philadelphia's water supply is not a threat and increased depletive use of Delaware River water could still be possible without Tocks, either without future major water diversions or with use of a series of small dams.

By the end of September the league hopes to have gathered enough votes to determine whether or not it should support construction of a dam across the river.

Student lives in a tent

$50 tuition increase unpopular at ESSC

EAST STROUDSBURG — Tuition at East Stroudsburg State College (ESSC) and 12 other state colleges went up Monday drawing a chorus of boos from local college students who feel the state is pricing them out of an education.

"Of course I'm very disappointed," commented Louis Sancinito, president of the student senate at ESSC. "We thought the legislature would appropriate enough money to allow the tuition to stay where it is.

"We're dealing with students who come mostly from middle class families. In these times, with their parents' salaries held down, it's very damaging to their chance to get an education."

The Pennsylvania Department of Education Monday increased tuition at the 13 state colleges and Indiana University from $750 to $800 a year, effective September.

"I couldn't afford to come back next year," said ESSC senior Robert Swisher. "I would have to borrow more money and I wouldn't want to do that."

Swisher said he is living in a tent near campus this summer to avoid paying high rents.

A student attending ESSC in the fall not only faces a hike in tuition, but a $36 increase in the housing fee and a $72 hike in the price of a meal ticket, or a total increase in costs for a year of $158.

Dr. William J. Penny, executive dean, said the college has opposed all fee and room rate increases, and opted for minimum hikes. He said ESSC cannot stop the tuition or room rate increase.

"I think it's pretty ridiculous," senior Ed Martisus said about the tuition hike.

ESSC packing 'em in

EAST STROUDSBURG — About 450 students at East Stroudsburg State College will once again be living three to a dormitory room this fall as the housing shortage on and off campus continues.

Dr. William J. Penny, executive dean, said overcrowding should be slightly less than last year. He attributed the condition to a state-mandated moratorium on new college buildings and lack of housing in the community.

Penny said the college can either pack students in and hope they adjust to rooms built for two people or deny students an education.

Students at the college were convinced that they will have to triple up.

School stops contractors' pay

EAST STROUDSBURG — Due to administration dissatisfaction with the heating system in the Administration Center, the East Stroudsburg Area School Board Monday tabled action on final payments to two contractors who did work on the building.

The board owes Fairhill, Inc., an electrical contractor, $3,300 and H. L. Cleveland Co., Inc., the heating contractor, $1,000.

School business manager Martin Beckner said both payments had been approved by the architects. He recommended that the contractors be paid because they apparently did the work as specified and the problems in the system were due to the design.

Board member Michael J. McKeown said, "I'd sooner them be angry than the children cold." He recommended the bills not be paid.

Solicitor Alex Bensinger said the board would have a stronger bargaining position if the money is withheld.

In other business, the school authority approved a school plan to build a bus maintenance garage on the south side of the high school.

The garage would be 35 feet by 40 feet and consist of two bays, one for bus maintenance and one for bus washing.

The school district owns 18 buses.

Beckner said the estimated cost of the garage is $5,000. It will be built using school labor. He explained the borough zoning hearing board has not yet ruled on a variance for the building.

The school board authorized their solicitor to write a letter supporting a house bill that would amend local tax collection law increasing the amount of penalties and interest for nonpayment of taxes.

Bensinger said under the present penalties corporations are encouraged to withhold tax monies until the last possible moment, rather than to pay on time.

The board approved salaries and appointments of non-professional personnel for 1975-76.

Secretarial salaries ranged from $4,630 to $6,945. Custodial salaries ranged from $3,608 to $8,746. Bus drivers all earn $3.78 per hour. Cafeteria workers ranged from $2.35 per hour to $3.07 per hour.

Elementary and secondary chairpersons were approved at the rates negotiated in the teacher contract.

Approval was granted for the superintendent, Robert Bookbinder, to attend the fall 1975 conference of the Pennsylvania Association of School Administrators at Bedford Springs, Oct. 19 through 21.

Approval was granted for the proposed Policies and Guidelines on Student Rights and Responsibilities.

The board approved its 1975-76 regular monthly board meeting dates. The board meetings will be held generally on the third Monday of each month, except on holidays, in the board room.

Shapp sticks with Tocks; other governors uncertain

By STEVE DRACHLER
Pocono Record Reporter

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp is convinced the Tocks Island Lake Project is vital for the future of the Delaware River basin, a spokesman said Monday.

Shapp will re-affirm that view Thursday when he meets with the Delaware River Basin Commission (DRBC) in Newark, N.J., the spokesman said. The commission is meeting privately to discuss the recently completed comprehensive restudy of the controversial $400 million project.

After the session commission members (the governors of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, along with the Secretary of the U.S. Dept. of Interior) will conduct a press conference.

According to one official at the DRBC, the governors will likely give their pro or con views on the proposed dam and 37-mile-long lake along the Delaware River.

Shapp is the only governor to state his position publicly.

Commission members have one of three choices to make: Approve the project, de-authorize it or defer it until a later date.

Tocks Island was first authorized by Congress in 1961. Its prescribed uses are for flood control, water supply, recreation and power generation.

The 10,000 acre lake would stretch from a point north of Shawnee-on-Delaware to Port Jervis, N.Y. and be included inside the 72,000 acre Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area.

According to several officials involved with the Tocks project, New Jersey Gov. Brendan Byrne will either voice his state's opposition to the project or ask for more time to review data collected in the 3,500-page report completed earlier this month.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey has not taken a stand on the Tocks project. Ogden Reid, commissioner of New York's Department of Environmental Conservation, is known, however, to have doubts about the project.

The fourth Governor, Sherman Tribbett of Delaware, has maintained a neutral stance on Tocks Island. In a published report recently, Tribbett said he will go along with the majority of the governors on the Tocks question.

The governors have until August 28 to forward their recommendations to Congress.

August 28 was the deadline set last year for a final decision on the future of the proposed dam across the Delaware River.

After $2.45 million for starting construction of a dam was included in the 1974-1975 federal budget, along with over $4 million for land acquisition, protests from environmentalists and other lobby groups forced a showdown over the appropriation.

The result was that a comprehensive restudy of the project would be conducted under the auspices of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the DRBC.

Money for land and construction was then taken out of the federal budget.

The study, completed under a $1.5 million special federal appropriation, leans toward, but stops short of recommending the dam should be built.

Shortly after the final study was released, Brig. General James Kelly, head of the Corps of Engineers' North Atlantic District, stated the Corps position that Tocks is the most viable of any of the alternatives proposed by the consultants.

On July 22 and 23, over 100 persons testified to the relative merits and weaknesses of the study and gave their views on the project.

It was the last of many hearings conducted during every stage of the restudy.

Jobless aides win points at school labor hearing

STROUDSBURG — Twenty-two teacher aides laid off from the Stroudsburg Area School District did not get their jobs back Monday, but they will have someone to talk with if they ever are rehired.

Aides won the right to negotiate with the Stroudsburg Area School Board after a hearing before the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board (PLRB) in Stroudsburg Monday. The aides, part of the Stroudsburg Area School Service Personnel Assn., had filed a charge of unfair labor practice against the school board for its refusal to negotiate with them.

The school board agreed Monday to:

— Rehire the aides before it hires anyone else to fill their vacated slots if the board receives federal money to run a remedial reading program.

— Negotiate with the aides if the board rehires them.

— Negotiate immediately with the only person remaining in the aides' bargaining unit, an audio-visual technician. (The personnel association is divided into two units. One represents janitors and secretaries. The second, which filed the charge, represents hall monitors and teachers, lavatory and audio-visual aides.)

Linda W. Miller, attorney for the personnel association, said the school board showed no malice in refusing to negotiate with aides. Therefore, she said, the association withdrew the charge of unfair labor practice.

The board said it laid off the teacher aides to cut its record budget first proposed at $5.9 million. Aides alleged the board fired them because they unionized and demanded higher pay.

Mrs. Miller said the issue of union affiliation was discussed before the formal hearing, but there was no evidence to support the charge. She said the district produced evidence it was having financial difficulty in February, a month before the PLRB certified the aides as a bargaining unit.

A second charge that the board was going to hire a firm to manage its cafeteria without notifying the association was dropped in late June.

Residents seek parking space

EAST STROUDSBURG — Incensed about the lack of parking facilities in their area, a group of Prospect Street residents is organizing to battle the Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County and the Borough of East Stroudsburg.

A letter signed by 38 residents was sent to the Redevelopment Authority, explaining their problem and requesting help.

As a result, a group will be meeting this morning with Shelley Clark of the Redevelopment Authority to organize a Project Area Committee, or PAC committee. The committee will serve to channel complaints of residents of the Courtland Plaza Number One urban renewal area to the authority.

Parking has always been a problem for some of the residents. There is no parking permitted on Prospect Street. Many of the houses have no driveways and no alleys.

Mrs. Judy Boushell of 63 Prospect St., one of the organizers of the parking fight, said she lives in a double house. Since there is only about four feet of space between her building and the next, there is no way she can put in a driveway for the two family cars.

Mrs. Boushell said that for many years, the owner of Sanitary Supply Company allowed the residents to park there.

This property was recently acquired by the Redevelopment Authority for demolition, however.

Eastburg tracks dirty water

EAST STROUDSBURG — The reason dirty water was coming out of the pipes of East Stroudsburg Monday was traced to an overdose of a hardness-combating chemical called calgon.

Borough Manager Donald Gage, who received numerous calls of complaint throughout the day, said an investigation by borough engineer and superintendent of public works revealed more calgon got into the water than should have.

The chemical is used to reduce the natural hardness of the borough's water and also serves to solidify the deposits of iron and manganese in some of the old water pipes.

The large dose of calgon evidently loosened the metal compounds, causing the discoloration of the water.

Gage said the water is "biologically safe to use" and should improve daily.

Power line controversy settled with Buck Hill

BUCK HILL FALLS — A dispute between Buck Hill Falls Co. and the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company (PP&L) about the location of a power line has been resolved.

Under the resolution, power lines would be strung over less than a tenth of a mile of Buck Hill property compared to eight tenths originally, according to PP&L manager Jim Walton.

Walton said the disagreement was resolved by moving a power substation a mile north of its present location on Route 447 and running power lines along the road.

PP&L had constructed a line from Newfoundland to Canadensis up to the Buck Hill property and had already constructed the substation when the dispute arose.

The original plans called for PP&L to extend a 66,000 volt line from the substation over eight tenths of a mile of Buck Hill property.

The Barrett Township resort objected to the plan which it said would destroy virgin woodlands.

Walton said that discussions had been going on since April, 1974, and that a resolution was reached earlier this month.

The Public Utilities Commission (PUC) had held hearings at Buck Hill's request, and Walton said Monday that both sides have asked the PUC not to hold more hearings.

He explained PP&L now plans to lay a 12,000 volt line for a mile along the highway instead of putting a 66,000 volt line for eight tenths of a mile.

Walton said 1,554 of these customers will have their service transferred to the new substation "just to relieve the load in Mount Pocono."

"There is growth. We can see it now. It's basically new people, new families, new buildings," he added.

C. Marshall Reese, vice president of Buck Hill Falls Co., refused to comment.

Walton said the new line is necessary to relieve the Mount Pocono substation, which has almost reached its capacity.

PP&L hopes to complete the substation and lines before winter to meet an anticipated increased demand in the area.

Presently 1,899 customers are served on the line from Mount Pocono to Canadensis through Upper and Lower Seese Hill to Dutch Hill.

Bridge repair bids tabled in Monroe

STROUDSBURG — Bids to repair a Hamilton Township bridge were opened Monday by the Monroe County Commissioners but the contract won't be awarded before Thursday.

Commissioners tabled awarding of the contract until the three bids received are reviewed by the county engineer and county solicitor.

Submitting bids were: LeRoy Shoemith and Son Inc., Cresco, $11,900; G.H. Litts and Son, East Stroudsburg, $16,025; and Clement Price, Stroudsburg, $9,500.

Repairs to the bridge on T.R. 404 over McMichael's Creek will include replacing a wooden deck and cleaning and painting all steel surfaces.

In other business, the commissioners appointed Mrs. Robert Arner of Brodheads-ville to the Hospital Authority to fill the unexpired term of Donald Dimmick who resigned. The term expires Jan. 1, 1976.

Touring the pro football training camps

Tarkenton's arm back in shape

ATLANTA (UPI) — Fran Tarkenton's arm is sound again, he's stronger than before and he's enthusiastic about going back to the training camp of the Minnesota Vikings today.

For six months Tarkenton has been a businessman with very little contact with football. "I get almost completely away from organized sports," Tarkenton said in his Atlanta office last week. "My life is in the business world. I don't go to golf tournaments or have much contact with football at all. So when it's time to go back to football, I'm ready."

"I'm really excited about going back to training camp Tuesday."

When Tarkenton took the Vikings to the Super Bowl last year, he did it with a sore arm

— "the most painful thing I ever had suffered in my life." Warning up before games was embarrassing because his arm was so weak, he said. He was unable to throw the short 10 to 20-yard passes with the zip and accuracy needed in the National Football League, and this inability affected his signal calling.

Tarkenton has never had the reputation of being a strong-armed quarterback. He said the longest pass he ever has completed in a game covered only 57 yards in the air and on every team he has ever quarterbacked in the NFL, the backup quarterback had a stronger throwing arm.

Despite this, the 35-year-old veteran is within striking range of many of the important NFL passing records held by Johnny Unitas. He intends to break them before he quits.

"Most of my career I've been known as a scrambler," Tarkenton said. "People never looked at me as a passer, but I've always considered myself a passer."

"It's kind of enjoyable to me that although I have not been considered a great passing quarterback, I'm going to break most of the passing records."

"I believe that the data tells the story. Some might say that Henry Aaron is not the greatest home run hitter. But he has the data to show that he is. He can prove it."

Tarkenton concedes that many will question his ability as a passer. But, he said, he someday will be able to say he is the greatest passer to play pro football and "my data's going to support it."

Parsons hurt

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bears gained a few and lost a few Monday.

Tight end Bob Parsons suffered a rib injury in the seven-on-seven passing drill in the morning workout and was taken to Lake Forest hospital. Wide receiver Tom Reynolds missed the drills for the fifth straight day and continued working with weights to ease his injured knees.

Wide receiver George Farmer was expected to be released from Illinois Masonic Hospital. He underwent surgery a week ago on a dislocated shoulder suffered the day after he signed his 1975 contract.

Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Green Bay Packers' Coach Bart Starr said veteran cornerback Ken Ellis, who left training camp last week over contract differences, would be fined starting Monday for every day he misses camp.

Starr met with Ellis Monday morning concerning Ellis' 1975 contract and said he told Ellis the Packers were standing by their offer.

"I want to reiterate that after several considerations and investigation of the salary structure in that position we have informed Kenny and his agent that this is our offer, that we feel very good about it, that we hope they would feel the same way," Starr said.

BOY, THAT'S GOOD — Cleveland Browns' defensive end Mike Seifert drenches himself with a wet towel Monday after a tough practice in the heat at Kent, Ohio, scene of the Browns' training camp. (UPI)

Gains first alternate slot for 'World Series'

Canadian victory boosts Weiskopf

MONTREAL (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf heads for the Westchester Classic this week with his game back in top form and hoping his Canadian Open victory will give him a shot at the $50,000 first money in the World Series of Golf.

Weiskopf, who edged Jack Nicklaus on the first extra hole of a sudden death playoff Sunday to win the Canadian Open title, will compete at the Westchester Country Club outside New York City, while many of the top touring pros, including Nicklaus, will pass it up to sharpen their games for the PGA championship the following week.

Weiskopf is hoping that either he or one of the current "big four" title holders wins the PGA at the Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio, which would then qualify him for the World Series at the same course Sept. 6-7.

The Canadian Open titleholder is first alternate for the World Series, which pits the winners of the Masters, U.S. and British Opens and PGA in a 36-hole match for $77,500 in prize money.

Masters' champion Nicklaus, British Open winner Tom Watson and U.S. Open titleholder Lou Graham already have qualified for the World Series. If any of them wins the PGA, Weiskopf automatically joins the field.

Last year, Canadian Open winner Bobby Nichols found a place in the World Series when South African Gary Player won the Masters and British Open. Lee Trevino, who took the PGA last year, won the World Series in a foursome that also included 1974 U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin.

Weiskopf got into the World Series only in 1973, on the basis of his British Open title, and won it.

The Canadian Open victory over the par-70, 6,628-yard Royal Montreal Golf Club in suburban Ile Bizard was something of a comeback for the sometimes erratic 32-year-old Weiskopf.

After his best year ever in 1973—when he won six titles, including the British and Canadian crowns and earned $245,463, third best on the PGA tour—Weiskopf failed to win a tournament in 1974, although he made $127,529.

"I know this may sound cocky, but I virtually played one-handed last year," he said following his win here. "My left hand hurt so much, I had to alter my game completely. My hand hurt so I never even practiced, and you can't win without practice."

He said the injury occurred during the Phoenix Open, the second stop on the 1974 tour. It later was diagnosed as a hairline fracture.

This season, he was healthy and started honing his game for the Masters, where he had been runner-up three times, winning the Greater Greensboro Open the week before going to Augusta. But he again was a bridesmaid there.

Patriots

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI) — New England Patriots' tight end Bob Windsor still isn't in good football condition. Coach Chuck Fairbanks said Monday, but he is making improvements since suffering a knee injury last season.

"He's doing fine, but he hasn't been able to condition himself like he has in past years. He's going to have to work himself into condition," Fairbanks said.

Steelers

LATROBE, Pa. (UPI) — Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Chuck Noll closed team workouts to the public Monday for the remainder of the week while the world champs prepare for Friday's College All-Star contest in Chicago.

The Steelers went from two-a-day drills to one light workout in the morning in shorts and one heavy workout.

Former lightweight champ Buchanan calls it quits

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) — Former world lightweight champion Ken Buchanan of Scotland, tired of waiting for titleholder Roberto Duran to give him a promised rematch and having to travel abroad to get fights, Monday announced his retirement from the ring.

"The only thing which will make me change my mind is if Duran honors the promise he made three years ago when he won my title and gives me a rematch," said Buchanan, the reigning British and European champion.

"I have had a contract for three years for a return fight with Duran, but he has made nothing but promises."

In New York, Madison

Square Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner said Buchanan's announcement came as "a shock."

"We have been trying to make a Duran-Buchanan bout for some time and had hoped to make it for this October. I hope Ken is not serious about quitting."

Buchanan's last 11 fights have all been outside Britain. Even when he was the world champion he failed to draw in his native Scotland and in London where fight fans are only interested in the heavyweights. He recalled bitterly at the time that he was more popular in New York than in Britain.

European title and he won the continental crown in 1974 when he knocked out Antonio Puddu of Italy in the sixth round. He has made three successful defenses since, the last being on Friday when he defeated Italy's Giancarlo Usai in Sardinia.

It was the ringside riot that followed his defeat of Usai which was partly responsible for Buchanan's decision.

Buchanan said British promoters never had given him a chance to fight in his homeland. "Promoters here have never really given me a chance."

Demolition derby at Nazareth

NAZARETH — A big demolition derby will be run at Nazareth Speedway on Tuesday, starting at 8. This event was originally scheduled for earlier in the month but canceled due to rain.

Many cars were already on hand at Nazareth on the rain-out even though the weather was very bad. A larger field is expected Tuesday because many more will have been able to find and prepare cars since the cancellation.

Track gates will open at 5:30 p.m. to sign entrants into the pit area. There is no entry fee for this event. All participants merely purchase pit insurance just as on a regular race day.

All cars will be demolished directly in front of the grandstands affording a good view to all fans. Demos have always been popular at Nazareth. The winner of this derby will receive $400, with second place getting $125.00.

Rutherford, Vukovich named 'Series' directors

BRYN MAWR — Johnny Rutherford and Billy Vukovich have been elected as advisory members of the Board of Directors of The World Series of Auto Racing.

The announcement was made by R.C. Conole, president, who stated, "We are extremely proud to have Johnny Rutherford and Billy Vukovich as advisory members of our Board of Directors. They are two of the most skilled and versatile drivers in the world. We feel that their advice and assistance will be extremely helpful in making our events successful. They are also two very fine gentlemen."

Rutherford was an automatic qualifier for the Series because of his two first-place wins in the Indianapolis 500 and the Pocono 500. He got off to a slow start in The World Series finishing fifth in the midget race and then twelfth in the sprint car race due to car problems.

He again experienced car problems finishing sixth in the stock car race but out-ran the field to win the championship car race and earn a tie for second place overall with Vukovich.

Vukovich started strong with a second place finish in the midget race and finished fourth in the sprint race. He was seventh in the stock car race and finished ninth in the championship car race, driving an unfamiliar race car. Between them, they won more than $50,000.

Commenting on his election, Rutherford stated, "I am pleased to be associated with The World Series of Auto Racing in a formal capacity and believe that I can offer some assistance in making the events successful. I believe the concept to be an excellent one where the best race drivers compete in four different types of race cars and I know that The World Series of Auto Racing has a great amount of prestige within our sport."

Vukovich added, "Most people never believed that this Series was possible. I was very pleased to have earned an invitation due to finishing so well at Indy last year. I believe I can be of help in making the Series successful and I believe it is a great addition to our sport."

The World Series of Auto Racing was run in two parts with the midget and sprint car events held on the three-quarter mile oval at Pocono International Raceway and the stock and championship car events held on the one and one-half mile oval at Trenton Speedway. The events are sanctioned by the United States Auto Club.

Winds name Gibron

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Winds fired hard-luck Babe Parilli Monday and named former Chicago Bears' Coach Abe Gibrion to replace him as coach and Leo Cahill, former general manager of the Memphis Southmen, as general manager in a belated move to bolster the World Football League franchise.

Parilli had served as coach and general manager only since May after he moved to Chicago from the Charlotte WFL team. The Winds have lost both their championship games this season.

Gibron and Cahill will have four days ("three days and three nights," said Gibrion) to get the winless Winds ready for their first regular season game against the Birmingham Vulcans Saturday.

Gene Pullano, Winds' president and head of the 12-man syndicate which owns the Chicago franchise, announced the new appointments and said he and the others felt they needed "top quality people."

Pullano said the owners were solidly behind, the team and denied reports the league might take over the franchise.

Both Cahill and Gibrion attended a crowded news conference and said they had received "multi-year" contracts. No other terms were announced although Gibrion denied reports his salary was in escrow.

Mt. Manor 'flag' golf winners

MARSHALLS CREEK — Bob Porter of Marshalls Creek won the men's division and Marilyn Theissinger of Brooklyn, N.Y., took the women's division title Sunday in the "Flag Tournament" held at Mountain Manor Golf Club.

Cliff Ames of Scranton was second in the men's division, with Cliff Shoemaker of Portland and Dick Otto of East Stroudsburg tied for third.

Terry Krocuk of Stroudsburg was second in the women's division. Jeanne Lupin of East Stroudsburg third and Nellis Long of White Heron Lake fourth. A covered dish affair followed the tournament.

A nine-hole mixed scramble tournament is next at Mountain Manor, scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 9. The women at the club visit Cliff Park in Milford for an invitational tournament Wednesday, Aug. 6.

Swig purchases troubled Seals

MONTREAL (UPI) — The National Hockey League announced Monday that it has sold the financially plagued California Golden Seals to San Francisco real estate magnate Mel Swig.

NHL President Clarence Campbell said the documents were signed in San Francisco Sunday.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I read recently that Anita Loos, the woman who wrote "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" nearly 50 years ago, made the statement that if she were writing that book today she'd call it "Gentlemen Prefer Gentlemen."

Has homosexuality become THAT widespread? Do you honestly believe that the number of males who prefer members of their own sex has accelerated to that degree? If so — what's the reason?

Bug-Ed in Peoria

Dear Bug: No, I don't believe homosexuality has become "accelerated to THAT degree." I do believe, however, that a great many "queens" are coming out of the closets and making their preferences known.

Some who have "announced" have been real shockers. A great many people used to think all gays were lispings, limp-wristed oddballs who could be spotted on sight by their makeup, perfume and outlandish dress. 'Tain't necessarily so. Some gays are very conservative dressers and would never know without being told. Miss Loos's comment notwithstanding, I still believe most gentlemen prefer blondes, brunettes or redheads — of the opposite sex.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who is as good as gold. I love her dearly. But she can't throw away a newspaper or a magazine. Her apartment has stacks in every corner, on every chair and table. A person can't find a place to sit down.

I worry because she smokes a lot and is careless with her cigarets. I'm afraid one day the whole place will go up in flames. Any advice?

Dear C.: "Goldie" is a menace to her neighbors as well as herself. Her neurosis could cause a disaster. Tell her that if she doesn't get rid of the fire hazards you'll report her to the apartment manager because you love her and want her around for a while. Then do it.

Women voters

Women were first granted the right to vote in New Zealand in 1893. The U.S. did not get around to it until 1920. Great Britain in 1928. France waited until 1944 and Switzerland 1971.
